Lindbergh Suspect Confesses Two Kidnapings

FEDERAL AGENTS CAPTURE SANKEY IN CHICAGO SHOP

Desperado, Long Sought for Questioning in Jersey Case, Admits Part in Bohn and Boettcher Abductions.

MONEY AND GUNS FOUND IN HOME

Terrorist Offers No Resistance and Gets No Opportunity To Take Poison Carried in Pockets.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(P)—Verne Sankey, one of the nation's most notorious kidnapers, suspected of the fatal Lindbergh abduction and nearly a half dozen others, was captured here today by federal agents. He later confessed parts in two major abductions, police reported. The former Gann Valley (S. D.) rancher, turned desperado, was taken in a north side barber shop. He was unarmed and offered no resistance. In his clothing were found several poison pills, presumably carried for the purpose of ending his own life in event of apprehension. He was overpowered, however, before having a chance to use them. In Sankey's apartment was found a small arsenal—two .38-caliber revolvers, a sawed-off shotgun and a large quantity of ammunition. In a tin box was found $2,200 in $100 bills, $200 in $20 bills and $20 in $1 bills. A woman living in the name of Helen Matern also was arrested in the apartment. She denied knowing Sankey's true identity.

Bohn and Boettcher. Rushed to headquarters, Sankey confessed, Melvin H. Purvis, head of the local office of the federal bureau of investigation, said, to participation in the abduction of Haskell Bohn, St. Paul, and Charles Boettcher, II, Denver, capital.

He denied, however, any connection with the recent kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, and that of William Hamm Jr., wealthy St. Paul brewer, who was taken by St. Paul officials, advised of the arrest, started here immediately to question him in both cases.

Purvis and his associates, Sankey to a severe grilling concerning the Lindbergh case. What the agents learned, if any thing, was not immediately revealed. The federal authorities did not know what disposition would be made of Sankey. New Jersey probably will have the first claim for him if evidence definitely links him with the Lindbergh kidnaping is developed, Purvis said.

Linked in Lindy Case. Sankey's name was brought into the Lindbergh case for the first time early in January when County Attorney M. E. Kinkaid, of St. Paul, announced he had uncovered evidence which indicated the terrorist might have had a connection with the fatal abduction. The evidence consisted, he said, of records of telephone calls from the Sankey ranch at Gann Valley, S. D., to New Jersey shortly after the abduction. "We also found in the basement," he said, "a complete account of the Lindbergh case."

Kinkaid, who figured in the Boettcher investigation also said handwriting experts noted a similarity in script on the Boettcher and Lindbergh ransom notes. A plot to abduct Jack Dempsey, Continued in Page 6, Column 7.

Walmsley, at Capital, Would 'Beat Up' Long

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—T. Semmes Walmsley, newly re-elected mayor of New Orleans and bitter political foe of Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, said upon his arrival here today on a business trip that if he ran into Long he would "beat him up."

E. N. CLAUGHTON GETS 10-15 YEARS IN LARCENY TRIAL

Jury Deliberates Four Hours To Find Former President of Loan Company Guilty on 5 Counts.

A verdict which found him guilty of violation of the state security act and larceny after trust, and carried a sentence of from 10 to 15 years, was meted out to E. N. Claughton, former president of the defunct Bankers' Savings and Loan Company, at 8:40 o'clock Wednesday night by a jury in Fulton superior court after nearly four hours of deliberation. The loan company official was tried in Judge Thomas' court on five indictments and received sentence of from two to three years on each. Three of the indictments were for larceny after trust and two for violation of the securities act.

Claughton was indicted jointly with G. C. Conley, who was vice president of the Bankers' Savings and Loan Company, but the two were tried separately. Conley was convicted last week and sentenced to serve 23 years, and Wednesday his attorney filed appeal. The trial of Judge Thomas set February 24 as the date for hearing of the appeal.

Claughton's case went to the jury after the state had produced evidence to support the specific instances of alleged larceny as shown in the indictments, and, in addition, had offered testimony of additional witnesses who said that they had loaned money to the company. In closing the case for the state Assistant Solicitor J. Walter McCraw told the jury that Claughton was "lower in the social scale than a highway robber," and asked for the maximum of each of the five indictments.

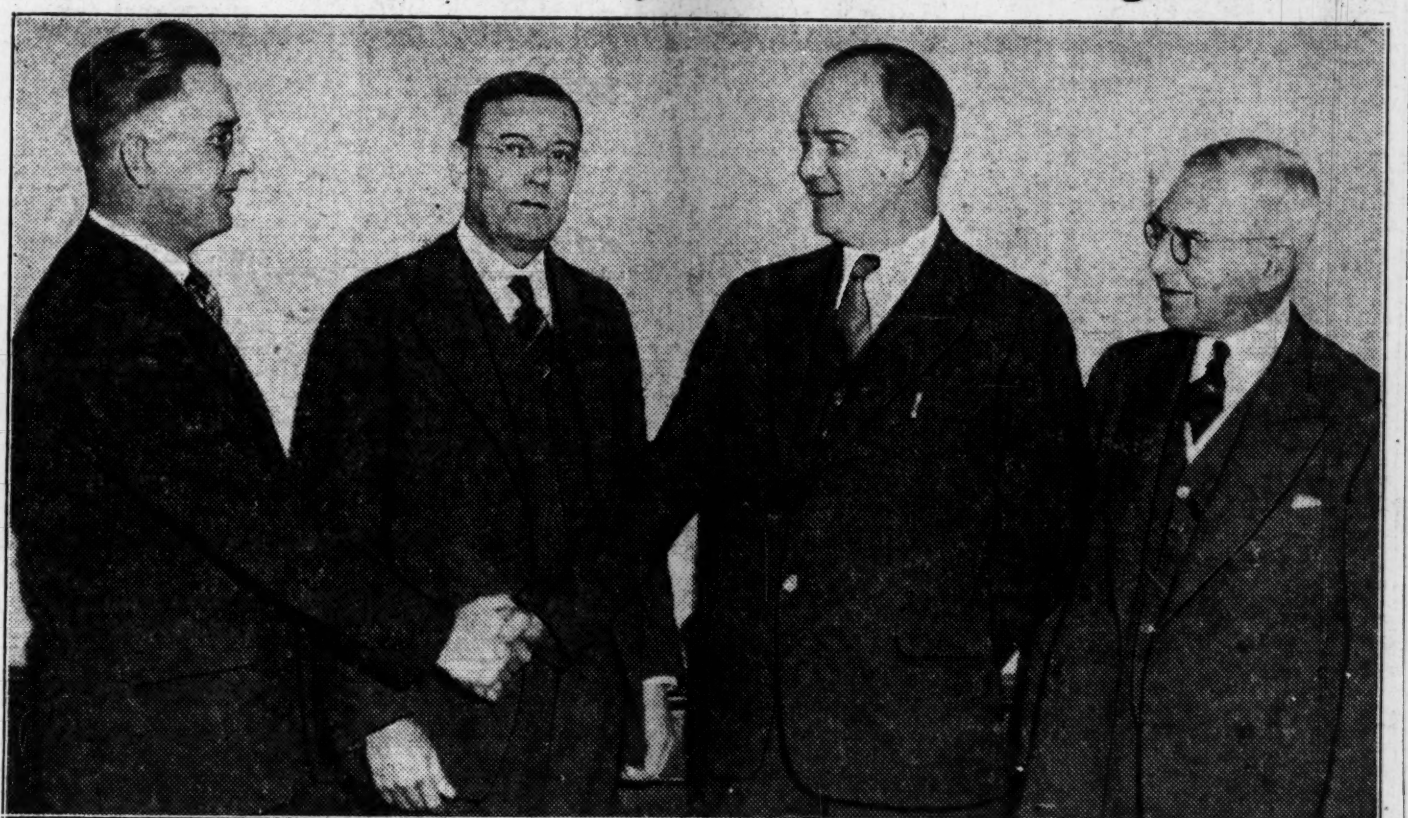

Contends Stock Purchased. The defendant in his own testimony to the jury contended that in all cases referred to in the evidence where money was entrusted for the purchase of specific stocks such stocks had been purchased, the former president had attributed the collapse of his organization to the calling of its account with Livingston & Company, brokers. The concern, he said, had accepted certain Georgia Power Company stock as collateral and had later allowed

Lawrence Camp Sworn In by Judge E. Marvin Underwood As United States Attorney for North Georgia District

Lawrence S. Camp, who Wednesday was sworn in as United States district attorney for the northern district of Georgia, is shown at the left in the above picture, shaking hands with Clint W. Hager, who was succeeded in the position after serving for 12 years. Judge E. Marvin Underwood, of federal district court of north Georgia, who administered the oath to Mr. Camp, is shown second from the left, and Jon Dean Steward, clerk of the court, is at the extreme right. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

In the presence of a large group of his friends, Lawrence S. Camp, of Atlanta, former attorney-general of Georgia and former chairman of the state democratic executive committee, Wednesday was given the oath of office of United States attorney for the northern district of Georgia. The oath was administered by Judge E. Marvin Underwood. District Attorney Camp succeeds

Clint W. Hager, who has served as federal attorney for the northern district for more than 12 years. Mr. Hager and his staff were present at Wednesday's ceremony. "It is a pleasure to welcome you to the district court of north Georgia," Judge Underwood said as he completed reading the oath of office. "I hope you shall find your service here pleasant as I know we will find our association with you."

Mr. Camp thanked Judge Underwood and pledged himself to carry out his duties to the best of his ability. Three of the five assistants to serve under Mr. Camp will take office today. They are A. Sidney Camp, of Newnan; Neil Andrews, of LaFayette, and I. K. Hay, of Covington. The two other assistants, Judge H. H. Tysinger, of Carrollton, and J. E. Mundy, of Jonesboro, will take office later. Mr. Hager said he would remain about the office for several days until Mr. Camp and his assistants become accustomed to their new duties. Among those witnessing the ceremony were Clark Howell Sr., J. S. Cohen, democratic national committee man for Georgia; Robert Russell, of Winder, brother of Senator Richard B. Russell Jr.; Charles H. Cox, former adjutant general of the state, and a number of Mr. Camp's close personal friends.

58-HOUR FREEZE BROUGHT TO END

Rising temperatures Wednesday morning brought to an end a 58-hour visit of freezing weather to Atlanta, and was succeeded by a new guest of the weatherman, a condition which will lead up to rain and warmer temperatures today.

Atlanta's streets were made slippery Wednesday night when a mixture of sleet and rain fell for several hours, however, and no traffic disturbances were reported to police.

With the backing of the cold wave broken, George W. Minding, United States meteorologist, recorded the city's return between 12 and 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to the first above-freezing temperature since 2 o'clock Monday morning. Temperatures today are expected to range from 38 to 54 degrees, the weather man said.

As the warmer weather began to be felt, there was a noticeable drop in fire alarms and other cold-wave symptoms, and pedestrians began to look like frost-bitten apparitions. The warming condition and rain probably will last through Friday, with the prospect of a slight change to colder after the rain passes, the weather man indicated. Wednesday's maximum was 38 degrees.

RED BALLOONISTS DASHED TO DEATH

By STANLEY P. RICHARDSON. MOSCOW, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A tragedy as dramatic and spectacular as its beginning was revealed today as the end of three balloonists' venture into the stratosphere, for which a new altitude record was set.

Secret and surprising, like their takeoff into the upper regions, was the finale which ended in their deaths and the destruction of all scientific instruments capable of proving their claim that they had reached a height of 67,585 feet.

Firemen Can't Save Wooden Water Tank

WAXCROSS, Ga., Jan. 31.—(AP)—This town's firemen know what real embarrassment means. They responded to a call from outside the water line to find a wooden water tank afire. They had a reserve tank holding 140 gallons of water and they sprayed the blaze. It wasn't enough and the water tank burned for the lack of water.

BRITISH RECOGNIZE GERMANY'S CLAIM TO ARMS EQUALITY

Italian Memorandum Proposes That Powers at New Conference Agree to Present Levels.

By The Associated Press. Great Britain and Italy, in separate memorandums, Wednesday proposed to allow Germany to rearm to break the long deadlock over armaments.

London's newest proposal is a 30-year plan, recognizing Germany's claim to equality to arms and adding additional security proposals. Among those witnessing the ceremony were Clark Howell Sr., J. S. Cohen, democratic national committee man for Georgia; Robert Russell, of Winder, brother of Senator Richard B. Russell Jr.; Charles H. Cox, former adjutant general of the state, and a number of Mr. Camp's close personal friends.

The Japanese diet was told Wednesday that by 1937 its own auxiliary vessels would outrank those of the United States.

Actuated by a spirit of trying "fairly to meet essential claims on all sides," Great Britain accordingly proposed a number of amendments to its draft convention of last March. The document was dispatched to the German, Italian and French governments on Monday.

Britain thus swung in with Chancellor Hitler's often-repeated plea for arms equality and France's just as insistent demand for security because it said.

"The object of his majesty's government in formulating these proposals and presenting them for consideration is not to describe the terms of an agreement which they themselves would most desire without regard for the claims or needs of others, but to propose a basis for compromise on which would appear

Roosevelt Signs Bill Backing Farm Bonds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Legislation guaranteeing the principal as well as interest of the government's farm credit bonds was signed today by President Roosevelt.

U. S. APPROACHES BRITAIN ON MONEY

Co-operation To Control Fluctuations of Dollar and Pound Proposed.

By W. G. KUENSBERRY. (Copyright 1934 by The United Press.) LONDON, Jan. 31.—(UP)—United States monetary authorities have approached British officials with a project for co-operation between the new American exchange equalization fund and the British fund, it was learned from a reliable source at the Bank of England today.

The United Press was informed that United States officials handling the new $2,000,000,000 fund desired to work with the British to control fluctuations of the dollar-pound rate within provisional limits.

Bank of England officials to whom the suggestion reportedly was made were said to have received it cautiously but reservedly. Private conversations are scheduled for next week on this subject, but this correspondent's informant commented that these are "not expected to achieve much."

The British apparently suspect that President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. were trying to maneuver them into the position of accepting temporary stabilization around the present exchange rate.

Such stabilization is not acceptable in London and the British have no intention of consenting to anything in the nature of stabilization, either temporary or otherwise, above the old par value of $4.86 to the pound sterling.

In fact, they hope eventually to be able to persuade the United States to stabilize at around $4.70 to the pound.

In view of the fact that the United States has newly acquired a huge exchange fund, British authorities feel that the Americans are hardly likely to be conciliatory toward such a suggestion.

They also feel that the United States is hoping for over-enthusiasm from its fund's operations in the face of strong adverse monetary influences, and that after experiencing difficulties in holding the dollar down to its present depreciated level, or more, that Washington will be more ready to listen to Britain's arguments for a lower stabilization rate to the pound.

The conversations next week will be between Bank of England officials and representatives of either the Reconstruction Finance Corporation or the federal reserve system, it was understood. The parleys will be secret.

MARKETS RESPOND WITH SHARP RISE AS DOLLAR DROPS

Basic Monetary Unit Now To Contain 15 5-21 Grains of Yellow Metal Against Previous Requirement of 25.8 Grains

By a stroke of his pen at 3:10 p. m., the president reduced the gold content of the official dollar to 15 5-21 grains, 9-10 fine. It was reduced from 25.8 grains set heretofore by statute.

GOLD PRICE IS SET AT $35 AN OUNCE

Devaluation Step Taken for Purpose of Expanding Credit, Stabilizing Prices, Protecting Trade

(Proclamation text in page 2.) WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(UP)—President Roosevelt established a 59.06 cent dollar today for the announced purpose of expanding credit, stabilizing prices and protecting this nation's foreign commerce.

By a stroke of his pen at 3:10 p. m., the president reduced the gold content of the official dollar to 15 5-21 grains, 9-10 fine. It was reduced from 25.8 grains set heretofore by statute.

Thereby the treasury gained a profit of nearly $2,700,000,000 on its gold holdings. From this profit is automatically established a $2,000,000,000 fund for use in controlling the dollar value in international exchange and for regulating the real value of the dollar in terms of commodities at home.

Stocks Whirl Up. All the chief commodity and security markets of the east were closed at the time the announcement was made but dispatches from San Francisco reported stocks were whirled upward by news of the revaluation. Meantime foreign currencies rose sharply in terms of the dollar in New York and dealings were thrown into confusion as the market sought to adjust itself to the news.

The president's proclamation today completed a long train of events, starting last March, which in effect changes the entire monetary foundation of the nation and which also is far to establish a new financial set up in the government. The treasury, and not the federal reserve system, now is the custodian of the nation's financial institutions.

To Start at Once. Starting probably at once, the treasury, through the stabilization fund, will deal in the currencies of other nations and bonds as may be deemed necessary.

A corps of foreign exchange experts has been selected to advise the secretary of the treasury in these operations, but the names have not been announced.

The president's own explanation of his action, contained in the proclamation signed by himself and, like all proclamations, by the secretary of state follows in part:

"Whereas, first, upon investigation, the foreign commerce of the United States is adversely affected by reason of the depreciation in the value of the currencies of other governments in relation to the present standard value of gold, and that an economic emergency requires an expansion of credit; and

"Whereas, I find, from my investigation, that, in order to stabilize domestic prices and to protect the foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, it is necessary to fix the weight of the gold dollar at 15 and 5-21 grains, 9-10 fine, from

National Park Sought On Atlanta Battlefield

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A national park commemorating the Battle of Atlanta, sanguine conflict in the War Between the States, was proposed in a bill introduced today by Representative Ramspeck, of Georgia.

Army engineers have estimated the park, in three sections, would cost $315,000 to establish and $8,000 annually to operate.

The park would include six acres on the north side of the city, about Peachtree creek, two acres on the east side and a 40-acre plot about the old Berea church on the west side where severe fighting occurred.

Provisions were included in the bill for marking certain of the earthworks, gun emplacements and other defenses used by the Blue and Gray armies. Any state which had troops engaged in the battle would be allowed to place markers and monuments honoring their soldiers.

The bill was introduced last session, but Ramspeck revised and reintroduced it.

Easter Sunday on All Fools' Day This Year, Sixth Time Since 1800

Easter Sunday comes this year on All Fools' Day, April 1, for the sixth time since 1800, a coincidence that will be repeated only two more times before the year 2000, it was pointed out Wednesday as Atlantans began to turn their thoughts to the beginning of Lent on Ash Wednesday, February 14.

Previous Easter Sundays falling on April 1 were in 1804, 1866, 1877, 1888 and 1923.

There is a wide range of days for Easter, the Christian holiday sometimes occurring in March and more often in April. In 1933, for instance, the date was April 16. In 1935, it will be April 21.

The present rule for determining the date of Easter was adopted in 325 A. D. by the Council of Christian Churches at Nicea. Under the rule, Easter falls on the first Sunday following the Paschal full moon which happens on or next after March 21.

The principal reason for placing Easter on this date was that pilgrims needed moonlight to travel on their way to the great yearly Easter festivities, according to the almanac. The date varies between March 22 and April 25, over a period of 35 days. Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent, is placed 40 days previous to Easter Sunday, not counting Sundays.

The Paschal full moon, the almanac explains, is the fourteenth day of a lunar month reckoned according to an ancient ecclesiastical computation and not the real or astronomical full moon. If the Paschal full moon falls on a Sunday, then Easter Sunday is the next Sunday.

PICTURE TO REVIEW ADVERTISING PROGRESS

"The Golden Years of Progress," a talking picture which reviews the development of all advertising, will be the feature of the regular Thursday meeting of the Atlanta Advertising Club.

This picture was seen by hundreds of thousands of visitors at the World's Fair, where it was shown each day, under the auspices of the Advertising Federation of America.

The Advertising Club will hold its meeting today in the preview theater of the National Theater Supply Company, 187 Walton street, at 12:30 o'clock. R. W. Goldsmith, office manager of National Theater Supply Company, will have charge of the program, and be assisted by William Kimberly, manager of the Visigraphic Film Corporation.

"The Golden Years of Progress" picture is now being shown to the members of the leading Advertising Clubs throughout the United States, and we are very glad of the opportunity to show it to our members," Charlton Keen, president of the Atlanta Advertising Club, said.

"The Golden Years of Progress" picture was produced by the Advertising Federation of America in order to give the layman who is not thoroughly familiar with the objectives of advertising, a clearer conception of the value of advertising to himself, his family and his country.

Victim of Gangsters Succumbs to Wounds

Aubrey Sikes, 34, of 1004 Pryor street, shot Tuesday night while seated in a restaurant at Pryor street and Ridge avenue in what police said appeared to be a gangster job, died Wednesday afternoon at Grady hospital while physicians were seeking to save his life by an operation.

Condition of Roy Evans, 29, of 1029 Ridge avenue, also a victim of the shotgun welders, Wednesday was said to be "fair" at Grady hospital. Police are holding Henry and Hugh Bacon, of Orchard Road, and Clifford Woodall, of Brown's Mill road, for investigation in connection with the shooting. They were arrested when Hugh Bacon appeared at Grady hospital for treatment of wounds in the leg and body, the other two men being his companions.

Sikes and Evans were shot through a plate glass window of the restaurant which is known as Murray's place. Physicians said that more than 75 birdshot had lodged in Sikes' body.

$626,000 Allotment for Fiscal Year 1935 Urged as Compared to $920,000 in 1934.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Recommending a drastic cut for upkeep of the Atlanta penitentiary during the fiscal year of 1935, the department of justice appropriation bill was reported to the house today with a provision that the Georgia penal institution be allotted $626,000 which is a decrease of $74,800 as compared with the present year budget estimates.

The appropriation for the fiscal year 1934 was $920,000 and the budget estimate for 1935 was $700,800. Sanford Bates, director of the bureau of prisons, department of justice, explained the decrease in funds at hearings held before a subcommittee of the appropriations committee, by saying that his total estimates for the bureau during 1935 were $2,158,000 less than those he submitted last year. "And," he added, "in this bud-et there is no request for construction money at Atlanta."

Repeal of the 18th amendment also has a direct effect upon his estimates, he said, because a large proportion of prison inmates today are composed of prohibition violators.

In discussing before the subcommittee the matter of moneys allocated by the public works administration to the bureau of prisons, Mr. Bates explained that a total of $210,000 had been allotted to the Atlanta penitentiary, of which $87,000 was for refrigeration, and an ice making plant. The balance, $123,000, was for guard and staff quarters.

"All of these PWA funds," said Bates, "have been obligated except money set apart for the refrigeration plant. The $123,000 for guard and staff quarters has been obligated. In fact, the buildings are under construction."

Refrigeration Plant Unessential.
In response to a query by Representative Oliver of Alabama, as to whether it was necessary at this time to spend money on the refrigeration plant, Bates said that it was desirable but not essential.

Asked by Representative Griffin, of New York, if the Atlanta institution had a refrigerating plant now, the director of prisons said:

"We have one which is obsolete, and which leaks, and it is more of a less out of kilter. It is expensive to take care of, and we felt that while we could not come here in these times and ask you to give us out of tax levies, or out of maintenance, the money for this purpose, we could suggest it to the committee, and justify it, on the ground that it would save in ice and water and steam."

According to Mr. Bates, on November 15, 1933, there were 647 prohibition act violators serving sentence at Atlanta as compared with 1,458 serving time for other offenses. At this time there were 2,105 prisoners in the Atlanta penitentiary.

From June 30, 1932, to June 30, 1933, the number of prohibition act violators fell from 1,235 to 798.

from the Atlanta institution by expiration of sentence during the six months from December 1, 1933, was 350, Bates said.

Questioned by Representative Florence Kahn, of California, as to what kind of books prisoners at Atlanta and other federal penal institutions preferred, Director Bates explained that so-called "westerns" and detective stories headed the list, but that every effort was being made to guide their reading into something more constructive.

Per Capita Cost Drops.
The director said that in 1930 the per capita cost of all penal institutions was 68.4 cents. In 1931, it was 82 cents. In 1932 it was 55.2 cents and in 1933, the year just closed, it was 43.2 cents.

"We are asking this year for the elimination of the restrictive language in last year's appropriation bill prohibiting the purchase of yarn for the manufacture of wide duck," Bates declared during a discussion of the establishment of new industries in penal institutions.

"This language has caused us considerable embarrassment, because we did not know exactly how to interpret it, or what it was designed to accomplish. We have, however, purchased no yarn for the manufacture of wide duck during the past fiscal year and we are continuing to do everything to diversify our textile output so far as is possible with our existing equipment."

Moreover, during the past six months we have permitted the government to purchase in the open market over 5,425,000 yards of canvas and denim. This is nearly twice as much as we manufactured ourselves during the same period. We have done this in spite of the fact that idleness still exists to a considerable extent in the Atlanta penitentiary and in spite of the fact that our mill is operated slightly less than 40 hours a week, whereas the commercial concerns to which these orders were allocated have been operating their machinery and equipment the maximum allowed under the textile code."

Dolly Dimple Laboratories To Open Plant Tonight With Radio Program in Building

Figures in the formal opening tonight of the new plant of the Dolly Dimple Laboratories. E. C. and L. D. Shearin, owners and managers of the enterprise, are shown at the top. Below are Misses Beulah Jernigan, Margie Bullard and Dolly Jernigan, the "Three Hearts Trio," and Green Adair, master of ceremonies for WGST, which will stage a public broadcast in the plant.

The opening of the new plant of the Dolly Dimple Laboratories at 500-2 Stewart avenue, will be celebrated tonight with a radio broadcast from the plant over WGST and the distribution of favors. Perry Bechtel's orchestra will play, and the "Three Hearts Trio" will sing. The public is invited.

The opening tonight marks the expansion of the company from a small beginning on DeKalb avenue two and one-half years ago. It manufactures a nationally known line of cosmetics. The new plant, with its St. Louis plant, gives the company 50,000 square feet of space or four times the space used in the old plant. Modern automatic machinery makes possible mass production of cosmetics, and the public tonight will see the machinery in operation.

The laboratories are under the management and ownership of E. C. Shearin, for 20 years experienced in the business, and L. D. Shearin, his son, for seven years engaged in cosmetic manufacture.

Continuous expansion, it is pointed out, made it necessary to open a Dolly Dimple factory in St. Louis. The opening of the new plant is another step forward in the manufacture of quality 10-cent cosmetics for retail in the 10-cent stores, drug stores and chains.

The line includes a wide variety of face creams, lotions, hair dressings, talcum and face powder, lipstick and rouge.

Formal opening of the new plant was heralded in advance with a broadcast Wednesday night, starting at 8:30 o'clock, and featuring the Three Hearts Trio and "Dolly Dimple."

Tonight the broadcast will be repeated direct from the factory from 8:30 to 9 o'clock, and again from 10:30 to 11 o'clock.

of ceremonies and will present Perry Bechtel and his 12-piece orchestra, Dolly Dimple and the Three Hearts Trio, the Old Philosopher, Dan Hornsby and His Boys and other acts.

HUTCHINSON IS NAMED ON WASHINGTON BOARD

Albany Cattle Raiser To Aid Campaign Against Cottonseed Oil Competition.

William B. Hutchinson, of Albany, president of the Georgia Beef Cattle Raisers' Association, returned Wednesday from Washington where he has been in attendance upon a meeting of the cattle and dairy industry mapping a program for rehabilitation of the industry.

Mr. Hutchinson served on a special committee which drew up resolutions setting out its program and also on a special committee which asked congress to levy a tax or tariff on all oils which compete with cottonseed oil.

"There is a bill pending before congress which calls for expenditure of $200,000 on the cattle and dairy industries," Mr. Hutchinson said. "If this is approved and the south gets its share of the money Georgia and her neighbor states will progress in this industry."

The meeting in Washington was called by Harry Petrie, chief of the cattle and sheep division of the agricultural adjustment administration.

2 ESCAPED CONVICTS GIVEN 6-YEAR TERMS

Edward Peacock and Bobby Ray, Fulton county convicts who with the fugitive Floyd Collins escaped from North Camp December 7 after assaulting M. J. George and taking a pistol and money from R. C. Guess, camp guards, were found guilty of robbery and assault and battery by a jury in Fulton superior court Wednesday.

The jury fixed the terms of punishment at 6 to 10 years on the robbery charge and 12 months, to run consecutively, on the assault charge. The two youths escaped in an automobile which they later abandoned.

BROWN DEALINGS TOLD SENATE BODY

Bank Trust Officer Testifies at Hearing in Air Mail Probe.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The financial transactions of Walter F. Brown, former postmaster-general, were outlined to the senate air mail investigating committee behind closed doors today by a bank trust officer.

B. T. Batsch, vice president of the Toledo Trust Company, was questioned privately all afternoon after he had testified on the stand that Brown had established a trust account at his institution in 1929.

Brown had authorized him, Batsch said, to give the committee "any information it desired" in executive session. He added the former postoffice official had authorized him to supply the number of any bonds or stock certificates or any other information which would enable the committee to trace the time of purchase and ownership of the securities.

"And in so far as any securities held," Batsch said, "may be connected or related to the awarding of ocean or air mail contracts, we have his authority and the authority of our bank to give that information publicly."

Before the executive session was agreed on, A. Lane Criche, former chief of the transportation division of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, told of a conference June 4, 1929, on a mail contract sought by the Dollar Steamship Lines.

Criche, reading from minutes of an interdepartmental subcommittee meeting, quoted W. Irving Glover, former assistant postmaster-general, as counseling against "anything to upset the political apple cart."

Glover explained this by adding that the postoffice department had to "carry the burden before the appropriations committee."

Criche further quoted Glover as saying:

"Congressman Free has told the postoffice department—and he is very close to one Herbert Hoover—that if Dollar gets any more money he will expose the whole thing on the floor of congress."

Cannons Roar in Havana But It's All Ceremony

HAVANA, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Eighty-four guns echoed and re-echoed through Havana today as President Carlos Mendieta paid an official visit to Rear Admiral Charles F. Freeman, aboard the United States battleship Wyoming.

When the Cuban president boarded the Wyoming, a 21-gun salute was fired. The cruiser Richmond duplicated the tribute and each fired 21 more on his departure.

Earlier, cannonading awoke the city when the Richmond, entering the harbor, saluted the nation with 21 guns and Cabana fortress replied.

Adoption by the finance committee today of a 1934 city budget setting up a $390,000 contingent for schools and payable to the Atlanta board of education when and if collected, as provided in the original city finance sheet, was predicted Wednesday.

Alfred E. A. Gilliam, chairman, has called the finance committee this morning to consider the budget, after failure of compromise efforts with school boards.

Gilliam asserted Wednesday that "only one avenue is left open to the council after refusal of the school board to accept the compromise we offered, and that is to place the $390,000 back into the contingent fund."

Finance committee overtures provided that schools be allowed to use the $390,000 for budgeting purposes, but that the board agree to absorb any deficit which might accrue from such a procedure. The board refused the offer.

City Budget Passage Predicted for Today

Expansive Program Seen for Waterways

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Development of a nation-wide system of navigation, flood control, irrigation and power projects on the principal waterways at a cost of perhaps half a million dollars will be proposed to congress soon as an outgrowth of a conference today between President Roosevelt and members of congress.

Chairman Stephens, democrat, Mississippi, of the senate commerce committee, one of those attending the conference, told newspapermen that bills would be introduced in both houses soon proposing a broad plan for development of the nation's waterways, along the lines now under way in the Tennessee valley.

The tentative plan proposed to group the developments into from three to five different projects. The smaller number would include the Atlantic coast, west coast and Mississippi valley rivers.

Sales Tax Proposal Buried in Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The sales tax, which splintered both parties in the last congress, was polished up again today with a promise that the house would feel its weight soon.

Representative Crowther, republican, New York, brought it forward in the ways and means committee. The committee promptly buried his proposal by referring it to a subcommittee. Crowther reserved the right to bring it up on the floor when the new tax revision measure comes before the full membership.

As revised today, the proposal called for a 2 1/2 per cent tax to be collected from the manufacturers on all articles except food and clothing.

SIGMA NU WILL ERECT MONUMENT TO EDITOR

Announcement of a monument to be erected to John Alexander Howard, founder and first editor of The Delta, magazine of the Sigma Nu fraternity, was made Wednesday at the Atlanta Alumni Club luncheon by Charles Edward Thomas, present editor of the magazine and president of the College Fraternity Editors Association. The marker will be erected in Tallahassee, Fla., in April or May.

Howard, who was a member of Kappa chapter of the fraternity, located at the North Georgia Agricultural College, in Dalton, Ga., printed the first issue of the Delta on a hand press 50 years ago. At the time of this issue there were only three active chapters of Sigma Nu and not more than a thousand members. Howard personally financed the magazine for three years, but was finally forced to send it only to those who had paid their subscriptions.

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 31.—(AP)—WILLIAM

PENALTY OF DEATH ASKED FOR TOUHY

Prosecution Concludes Closing Statement; Defense in Midst of Plea.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A demand by the prosecution that Roger Touhy and two others go to the electric chair for the $70,000 kidnaping of John Factor—and a charge by the defense that Factor never was kidnaped—came today as the trial drew to a close.

Half of the prosecution's closing statement to the jury was made by Marshall Kearney. Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart then began a dramatic defense plea, interrupting it only when Judge Michael J. Feinberg decided the hour was too late to continue for the day.

Kearney's closing arguments centered around identification by Factor from the witness stand of Touhy, Gustav Schaefer and Albert Kator as men he glimpsed while being held by kidnapers. He declared: "That testimony stands uncontradicted in the court record."

He then reviewed circumstantial evidence by the state—evidence that Roger Touhy directed renting of a house in suburban Glenview where Factor allegedly was held, that members of the suburban Touhy beer gang disappeared at intervals during the kidnaping, and that they associated with Basil Banghart and Charles (Ice Wagon) Connors, identified as men who attempted to collect a second $50,000 after Factor's release.

STRIKERS PREFER JAIL IN DECLINING BONDS

KINGSTON, Tenn., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Declining to accept bonds for their release, more than 70 strikers from the Harriman Hosiery Mills remained in jail here today while their union representatives resumed negotiations with mill officials.

Local officers of the textile workers' union returned yesterday from Washington, where they and mill representatives made an unsuccessful attempt to settle differences before the national labor board.

William D. Thomas, Hoosier Falls drugist, is the new representative in congress from the twenty-ninth district of New York state.

Thomas, a republican, defeated John J. Nyhoff, democrat, and Coleman B. Cheney, socialist, in a special election yesterday to fill the vacancy left by the late James S. Parker, republican.

Comment at the Capital

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Six states now in the liquor business through what are known as "state stores" are having a hard time getting the necessary capital to finance their purchases.

And the wholesalers in turn are having a hard time getting credit from the banks based on orders

Ever since Arkansas refused to support some of her state bonds, the banking world has been wary about extending credit to states. Most of the states which rushed into the plan of distributing liquors through their own stores did not appropriate capital.

Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and Oregon have a demand for the liquor at retail, but the distillers are insisting on cash. The state of Washington is asking that state bonds be accepted by the distiller on a 90-day basis. Pennsylvania is trying to finance the liquor traffic out of current receipts, but owes the liquor makers considerable sums already. Montana

DAVID LAWRENCE, is to be arranged. The effect of the legitimate industry

Another defect is the small number of state stores established for certain given areas. Thus, in some instances, there is only one state store for 40,000 population. Will the people go five or six miles, especially in inclement weather, to buy their groceries?

These are some of the problems confronting the state store plan, but thus far it is being defended even by some of the liquor interests as perhaps the better approach. It cannot be successful, however, unless it is properly financed and unless the prices are as low if not lower than those charged by the bootlegger.

More and more the question of economics is entering into the competition between the legitimate and illicit trade, though to be sure the matter of labeling is at the moment helping the bootlegger. Thus the bootleggers who get smuggled supplies are in many parts of the country deliberately using false labels. The restrictions imposed by various states and cities have led to a controversy with the legitimate in-

The legitimate industry on the other hand has been compelled to obey strict labeling regulations. A compromise plan is being worked out here by the federal alcohol administration which it is believed may lead to uniform labeling throughout the country. The idea is to

Only a limited amount of aged whisky is available now inside the United States and the government has not relaxed its import restrictions with respect to quantities obtainable from abroad. By a system of uniform labeling, it is thought, the consumer will soon distinguish what ab-

Many of the states which have not adopted a detailed plan are looking to the federal alcohol control administration for guidance, but the problem of how to defeat the bootlegger and his allies abroad, who sell to him at prices which avoid the duty and the American tax, is something that has not yet been solved. As a matter of fact, very little money is available as yet for federal enforcement, for the disposition heretofore has been to assume that the liquor question should be handled by the states after repeal. Evidence accumulates that an even bigger staff of federal agents than before will be necessary to stop smuggling at the borders.

PLANNING BODY STATUS IN SLUM PLAN SOUGHT

Key To Be Asked for Ruling on Demand of Group Opposing Techwood.

Mayor James L. Key this morning will be asked to decide whether the Atlanta planning commission has any right to demand that it pass on plans for Techwood, Inc., it was decided Wednesday afternoon.

Headed by Phil McDuffie, attorney, a delegation Wednesday afternoon asked the planning commission to wire Secretary Harold L. Jakes, PWA administrator, that the planning board has not passed on any plans for slum clearance in Atlanta and asking Jakes to inform the board of any petitions for money which may be filed there.

In addition to McDuffie, W. H. Shippen, large apartment house owner; J. H. Pappa, secretary of the Atlanta Apartment House Owners' Association; Mrs. W. P. Dunn, leader of the Atlanta Women's Club; Jo Johnson, local attorney, and W. T. Harrison, president of the South Side Civic Federation, were in the delegation.

They insisted on an immediate wire to Washington, saying a delay probably would mean that the $1,500,000 set up for the Techwood development might be allocated definitely within the next 48 hours. They contended that the money should be distributed in various parts of Atlanta, and that expenditure of the entire sum on the sites agreed upon would "not be for the best interests of Atlanta."

Walter S. McNeal Jr., chairman of the zoning committee of the planning board, and other members decided to ask the mayor, who is ex-officio member of the board, to pass on whether the board has authority to ask for such plans and to pass on them if they were submitted.

MYSTERY MALADY AT GRADY SOLVED BY HOSPITAL AID

Mystery of the strange ailment which struck down three children in the last several weeks was cleared up Wednesday when Dr. Jack Norris, of the Grady hospital laboratory, reported that thorough investigation of the pneumonia cases had revealed that the wax-like substance which puzzled physicians was the air-dried mucus which the very young children had been unable to expectorate.

MISS BARKER CALLED TO EDUCATION SESSION

Miss Mary C. Barker has received a call to attend a conference on workers education in Washington on Friday. The invitation came from Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, and G. F. Zook, United States commissioner of education.

Workers' education is one of the adult education activities being carried on as a part of the emergency relief work for unemployed teachers and the conference in Washington is to discuss further plans for the work and its co-ordination with other similar activities, it was said. Miss Hilda W. Smith, director of the Bryn Mawr summer school for women in industry and secretary of the affiliated schools for workers, is in charge of this program of the emergency relief work.

Miss Barker is chairman of the executive committee of the Southern school for women in industry and is past president of the American Federation of Teachers.

All-Age Stake This Morning Will Open Trials at Albany

GREAT ARRAY OF CHAMPIONS SEEKING TITLES

Atlanta Well Represented at Meet; Many Notables Present.

By Ralph McGill.

ALBANY, Ga., Jan. 31.—With the course all decorated in russet and brown, and with a keenness in the air like wine, everything was ready for the morning and the third running of the annual "Tournament of Noses."

The southern amateur begins tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock with the south's best dogs entered. On next Monday the All-American amateur quail championship will begin with the 1933 Grand American champion, Rapid Transit, entered, and this will be followed by the Continental, the open stake, with the best of the professional and amateurs entered. The all-age is first on the program tomorrow.

There are dogs from the east and the west, and from the south. There are 10,000 acres of bird country ready for them. Territory where there has been no hunting and where the conservation plans have been carried out thoroughly. This includes the Van Cise and Hollis Lanier plantations.

ATLANTANS PRESENT. Atlanta is to be represented by entries from the kennels of Mrs. Walter Rich, Bob Woodruff, Dr. George Myhrall and Dr. Pope Hugley. Not only will there be the champions from the hunting field on hand for the trials, but there will be captains and kings and queens, too, for that matter, of sport and business and finance here for the trials.

Glenna Collett Ware, who was national woman's golf champion for a number of years, will be here with her dog, Bellview Bob, which won the amateur derby at Pinehurst. She will enter her dog in the Continental.

Bobby Jones, the world's greatest golf champion, will also be present. Governor Eugene Talmadge has promised to appear. It was impossible tonight to say when he would arrive. There are three trials, extending from today through 15 days of hunting.

The All-American will attract the largest field. The Continental will also pull a large one. And the Southern, which will get started in the morning, will also present a splendid field.

A FEW LEADING DOGS. A few of the better known dogs will appear during the three trials are: Supperette, Itchaway, Rumson Farm Queen, Rumson Farm King, Captain of Killyb, Springwood Spider, Big Push, Air Circus, Break Rider, Great Island Repeal and Great Island Lipstick, Norias Roy, Kremlin and Bellview Bob.

Although the field was impressive, the notables who gathered for the events were even more so and among owners and distinguished spectators who have been attracted here are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ware Jr., the former Glenna Collett, of Philadelphia; W. C. Tangle, president of the Standard Oil Company; Miss Claudia Phelps, wealthy sportsman of Aiken, S. C.; and New Jersey; Judge R. W. Rinkham, ambassador to Great Britain; W. C. Potter, president of the New York Guaranty and Trust Company; Raymond Hongland, president of the Continental; the owner of the Rumson Farm Kennels; William Zeigler, New York race horse and polo enthusiast and owner of triple champion, Mary Montrose; Thomas Chubb, wealthy sportsman; Bobby Jones, retired golf king; and Governor Eugene Talmadge.

The trials, opening tomorrow with the Southern will continue through February 17, when the Continental will be terminated. The starting date for the All-American is February 5, with February 12 opening day of the Continental.

THE SOUTHERN. The Southern will offer three stakes for the dogs, namely, the all-age, the derby and the puppy. Heats of the all-age and derby will be 30 minutes with the time being cut to 20 minutes for the puppy.

The All-American will be open to dogs handled by both amateurs and professionals, will be divided into the all-age and the derby. The all-age will be one hour and 50 minutes and the derby will last one hour.

First place in the Continental will net the winner $1,000 with $750 top money in the all-age.

Lock Simmons, of Allendale, S. C., and James Smith, of Union Springs, Ala., will be judges for the Southern. Charles D. Jordan, of Monticello, Ga., nationally known field trial judge, was tonight appointed one of the judges for the Southern amateur field trials which began here tomorrow. Jordan replaces J. H. Sims, of Union Springs, Ala., who was ill and unable to attend. The second judge will be Lock Simmons, of Allendale, S. C. Jordan is one of the most popular and best known sportsmen in the United States. He has judged trials in all sections in the United States and Canada.

McGahee Shifted To Petrel Center

Joe McGahee, tackle, was shifted to the center position Wednesday afternoon as the Ochslethorpe football team returned to practice. A rest was given the squad last week-end and Monday and Tuesday afternoons were devoted to skill practice. McGahee, "Coach John Patrick states" that the work will be speeded up somewhat during the next few days.

AMERICAN LEAGUE. Ramon Baptista, one of the hardest fighting basketball teams in the American league, plays Peachtree Christian in the feature game tonight at the Y. W. C. A. Peachtree experienced difficulty in dislodging of Ramon in their last meeting and was lucky to pull through with a margin victory.

F. E. F. has thrown a scare into the league with their recent showing and tonight look to turn in a performance. Blue Eagle five, F. E. F. possesses a squad of college and high school stars each capable of extraordinary basketball skill.

Imman Park, who has yet to taste defeat, plays the Armonia in the nightcap. The Armonia now inhabit the cellar, but tonight do not disturb their fighting spirit as they put everything into each game they play.

The schedule:

AMERICAN LEAGUE. Y. W. C. A. Ramon Baptista vs. Peachtree Christian at 7:30. Blue Eagle vs. F. E. F. 8:30. Armonia vs. Imman Park, 9:15.

Competes at Albany

THE GEORGIA SCENE.

When Joe Knight, of Georgia, meets Maxie Rosenbloom tonight for the light-heavyweight championship of the world at Miami there will be memories of more than a few Georgians who found the top of the hill. My friend Gus Castle tells me that Bobby Walthour, of Atlanta, was the first southerner to win a world's championship. Walthour cleaned up this country more than 25 years ago and then mopped up with Europe on the cycle track.

There is no individual world's championship in baseball, but Ty Cobb made one for himself from 1905 to 1920 when he led his league in 12 out of 13 years. Cobb finished his career with the greatest collection of runs, base hits and stolen bases ever made, and that should be good for some form of crown, coronet or scepter.

Then there was a young fellow named Bobby Jones who swept the world of golf in 1930 with four major championships in a row. That's a close to being a world's champion as you can get in golf.

Young Strickling reached the final frame of a heavyweight championship when he met Max Schmeling, but that was his closest bid for the big title. Georgia Tech turned in a Rose Bowl victory after an unbeaten season for another claim.

What about Bobby Walthour, Ty Cobb, Bobby Jones, Nap Rucker, Alex Stirling, Young Strickling, Tiger Flowers and a few more, the red clay state of Georgia can offer young Knight all the inspiration a challenger needs.

Whether this will be enough to keep from getting slipped around by Slapsie Maxie and his windmill contortions is another matter. The insiders around Miami don't seem to think so, but the insiders lately have spent most of their time on the outside.

LOOKING BACK.

I can still recall the time around 1904 and 1905 when a Bobby Walthour victory in a New York six-day race was the signal for a city-wide Atlanta jubilee. Extra editions were rushed to the streets, announcing the happy tidings. And when Bobby went back home there was always a great celebration waiting in which many thousands joined.

The same thing happened to another Atlanta Bobby from 20 to 25 years later when he returned to wear the long various golf crowns, picked up from Minnesota to Scotland.

Ty Cobb also brings up memories of that same Atlanta period more than 30 years ago.

I still recall the day when a 200-word dispatch arrived late one afternoon. It was from a country correspondent announcing that "Ty Cobb, a promising young ball player of Royston, was in training for his first professional season with Anniston, Ala." The announcement went on to say that young Cobb, then 18, was practicing batting and fielding and base running. That was around 1903.

Never having heard of young Ty Cobb, the 200-word special was tossed into the nearest waste basket. He would have been set in double-column type. For the next 25 years the same Cobb was to score more runs, make more base hits and pile up more stolen bases than any other ball player in history. He was to bring on a new style of offense or attack with a dash, a daring and a shrewd planning that had never been seen before nor has ever been equaled since.

So Joe Knight, of Cairo, Ga., has something to shoot for in his battle at Miami. He can step into a lot of tradition built up along championship lines and add his name to a roll call of exceptional class.

BOB SMITH GLAD; GOING 'BACK HOME'

as much trouble with Hubbell as the portside swimmers, Smith divulged. Even Riggs (Old Hoss) Stephenson, one of our best right-handed bludgeoners, struck out lustily before Hubbell's tricky screw ball, or "fadeaway," as the old-timers used to call it.

"Hubbell threw the screw ball differently from any other pitcher in baseball," Bob continued. "He lets it roll loosely off his third finger and, believe me, he has perfect control of it."

Bob also gave his opinion of Blondy Ryan, the celebrated "they can't bear us" shortstop of the Giants.

"He'll never be a great hitter, but he makes up for it in fielding. He covers lots of ground, has a good arm and reminds me of Glenn Wright, of Brooklyn, in his movements," Bob said. He thinks Ryan will hit enough to stay up there, since a good hustling shortstop can get by on a .250 or .275 average in the National league.

GOT IN SERIES. Bob does not regret the two years he spent with the Chicago Cubs. For he got into his first World Series with that outfit (in 1932) and also had one of his best pitching years there in 1931 with 15 victories and 12 defeats.

He sees Boston as "the" coming baseball town of the majors now, and the Braves improving by trades and

'Ducky' Pond Named Yale's Head Coach

Former Star Halfback Elevated; "Greasy" Neale, Myers, Williamson Are Assistants.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Standing pat on her traditional policy of graduate coaching, Yale elevated Raymond "Ducky" Pond tonight from junior varsity coach to be head coach of Yale varsity football.

To aid the man who made gridiron history for Yale in the mud battles of 1923 and 1924 against Harvard, three "outsiders" were called: Denny E. Myers, of West Virginia, line coach.

Ivan B. Williamson, of Michigan, end coach.

The appointments were made tonight by the board of athletic control, on the recommendation of Malcolm Farmer, chairman of athletics, after a controversy involving graduates and undergraduates alike since the close of last season.

"Ducky" Pond and his aides take over the reins from Reggie Root, head coach of only one year, and his staff which included Charlie Comerford, a Yale man, and two Notre Dame men, Adam Walsh and Rocky O'Connor.

The Yale Athletic Association announced that the new staff will report at New Haven early in February to lay the ground work for a squad that must meet next season one of the toughest schedules ever faced by a Yale team.

Spring practice—four to five hard weeks of it—will start late in February in preparation for fall games against Columbia, Pennsylvania, Brown, Army, Dartmouth, Georgia, Princeton and Harvard.

The strong West Virginia tinge in the new staff came as a surprise after the demands of graduates for an "outsider" head coach, preferably Harry G. Kipke, of Michigan, led to the belief that most of the coaches would be Michigan men.

Yale athletic authorities said Benjamin Oosterbaan, of Michigan, had been offered the post of end coach, but turned it down, so Williamson, previously assigned to the freshman staff, was raised to the varsity job.

The board of athletic control—12 men, headed by James Bowdoin Angell, president of the university—held its deciding meeting in the offices of the Yale A. A.

The appointments were announced immediately afterward. One-year "agreements" were drawn up for the new coaches. Their salaries were not disclosed.

NEWSWOMEN SIGNS. ST. LOUIS, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns announced today that Pitcher Louis N. (Buck) Newsome, drafted from Los Angeles, had agreed to terms. He won 30 and lost 11 games in the Pacific Coast league last year.

"I've never seen such power as Kentucky unleashed in that last half and my opinion is that they don't miss Azalea Sale as much as we thought," Britton declared. He also saw Alabama as just as strong, or stronger, than they were last year.

"Hank Crisp has a great club, too,"

MAJOR BRITTON PREDICTS LIVELY TOURNEY HERE

Tennessee Coach Says Kentucky Has Another Great Team.

Major Bill Britton, basketball coach at the University of Tennessee, and more famous as a member of that school's football staff, predicts a fast, lively southeastern conference tournament in Atlanta the latter part of February.

Britton, here with his Vols last night, said that the so-called "top flight" teams, Alabama, Kentucky and I. S. U., are every bit as good as they were last year and that the semifinals and finals should rank with those of any past tournament in caliber.

"Of course when we had more teams, there might have been a little more interest, but my opinion is that the southeastern conference with its 13 entries can put on just as good a spectacle as the larger tournaments," Britton said.

The Tennessee coach was very much impressed with the Kentucky five, which swamped his club last Saturday night.

"I've never seen such power as Kentucky unleashed in that last half and my opinion is that they don't miss Azalea Sale as much as we thought," Britton declared. He also saw Alabama as just as strong, or stronger, than they were last year.

"Hank Crisp has a great club, too,"

Jordan Is Judge In 'Liars' Contest

Charles D. Jordan, well-known Monticello, Ga., sportsman, and recognized bird dog field trial judge authority, will be the judge in another contest.

Mr. Jordan has agreed to sit on "the board" which will decide the winners in The Constitution's hunting and fishing "tall tales contest" which starts soon. Mr. Jordan says that he has always wanted to judge some of these outlandish tales, since he has heard so many of them in the great out-of-doors.

Major Trammell Scott, of Atlanta, and Ozark Ripley, nationally famous scout, guide and writer, have been asked to act as the other two judges. You may start sending in your hunting and fishing tales now. They will be welcomed.

and he is of the opinion that Kentucky will be the club to beat again this year," he stated.

Britton, Crisp and Dr. A. H. Armstrong, of Tech, compose the acting committee handling plans for the tournament. They plan to invite all 13 teams and are now working on entry blanks.

Mississippi State, a strong contender last year, suffered a blow in the loss of Taylor, star center, but still is a contender.

"It wouldn't be a tournament if we didn't have a dark horse or so," he said, laughing. Last night's win was Tennessee's first in the conference.

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

Like lightning flashing, the theme of the short story I had read long ago came back to me—how two would-be murderers had overpowered a helpless youth, noosed a rope about his ankles, hauled him up to swing head downward from a beam in a picture gallery—English fictionists seem to favor picture galleries in isolated but stately manor houses as the settings for their atrocities—and were standing by while their victim struggled to death, when the rescuer broke in to the salvation of the youth and their complete undoing. I've just looked up the climax of that tale and to make my point clearer, am quoting the succeeding paragraph:

"The doctor, when he arrived, made it clear that death must have ensued in a very short time. This would have been caused by the enormous congestion of the brain . . . the doctor further said that . . . after the body was lowered down there would have been not the faintest trace apparent to any one of what had happened."

"Not the faintest trace"—that was the pregnant line that shuttled across my mind while I was getting up on my feet and dusting off my knees.

In parenthesis I would say that for any one contemplating a career dedicated to lethal endeavors, a course of reading in the crime classics is bound to prove very useful and abounding in valuable hints and helpful suggestions.

I flatter my self that now I improved on the idea provided by the Messrs Meade and Eustace. For they overlooked the fact that a lashing on the ankles of a capsize man who is writhing and jerking in the throes of slow suffocation, undoubtedly would leave pressure marks upon his squeezed flesh. They overlooked that, and I didn't. It appeared to me highly essential that Wong Gee's death should be attributed not to violence in any form but to plausibly natural causes. So, working swiftly, this was what I did:

From the bathroom I got two towels, already soiled and crumpled, and with one of them I wrapped his spindly ankles, and with the other, while standing on a chair, I padded the top breadth of one of the exposed rafters which run crosswise of that unceiled room. From below I brought up the rope over which I just had stumbled. It was admirably fitted for my purpose, being of some pliable cotton weave, as thin almost as a clothesline but fairly new and good and strong. I knotted one end of this line about the joint bindings on the Chinaman's ankle joints, flung the other end over the padding on the rafter, drew it taut and then, putting my weight on the rope, hoisted the attenuated frame until the hollow head swung clear of the floor.

What I had forgotten was that, ordinarily speaking, the surest way to restore to consciousness a person who has fainted, is to lower the head and elevate the extremities, which immediately sends rushing back to the brain the blood which shock has driven away from it. But this was no ordinary case. Fortune continued to favor me, seeing that old Wong Gee must already have been semi-mortally bound at the moment when he tumbled at my feet.

He died very quickly, and with out any struggling, without any unpleasant choking sounds, even. When I was sure he was dead, I lowered him down and untied his legs and draped him over the couch in the posture in which he was found next morning. I increased the two towels and shook them out, being pleased to note that the one which had saddled the rafter bore very little grime on it—for this is a section where sandy grit sometimes flies about but rarely any dust—and I put the two towels back as I had found them. I made sure I was leaving behind me no evidence that I had been there. I returned the rope to its former place downstairs. And then, and not until then, I looked at my watch. It marked 11:41. Although I had been on this undertaking just a trifle longer than half an hour, I hadn't squandered my minutes.

But right then I was guilty of my first slip-up, and that, you will concede, was no fit time for being absent-minded. But absent-mindedly I started to traverse the clipped grass plot behind the bathhouse, automatically taking the course which naturally one would follow in order to quit the bathhouse.

I traveled only a few paces before the awareness of that unthoughtful indiscretion I was committing rang like a gong on my consciousness, and I turned off, off into the boggy and bordering the shore and so, keeping well-hidden, departed by the reversed route that I had followed to arrive on this spot.

But I was exposed, out there in the moonlit open, long enough for Florence, and she standing listlessly by a back window, saw me. A fitting glimpse of me. It was this sight which pell-mell sent her forth with her troubled heart in her throat, to find out, if she could, with this trespasser, was, and it was the hope of finding out which drew her on through the interlacings of vegetation into which she had seen the shape vanish, until she muddled her slippers. And because what she instinctively saw might have been the shape either of Gregory Thorpe or of Gilbert Reid—for, as may be recalled, we are much of the same height and near the same build, save that he is hard and straight from hard-living and I am sparse and stiffening from the increasing age—because of this, she went back indoors after her vain pursuit, filled with a great and dreadful uncertainty. And this, simply this, and nothing else, made her drop from fear next day when all at once suspicion centered upon the unaccountably missing Gregory, and within half a week it was this terrible unanswered question still gnawing at her breast, which armed her with resolution to protect me, at no matter what cost to herself; which at Sabino's wired demand sent her away on the flight that was ended so soon and so devastatingly; which locked her lips after they had caught her and has kept them locked ever since—bless her plucky little soul!

Yes, there was one other serious mistake I made. I should have killed Sabino before he filed that disastrous telegram. But how, any earlier than I did finally know, was I to know he had sent such a telegram, seeing that it is he who wrote the decision, curious that a man who so much as mentioned it to any living being, he immediately would reveal the deadly evidence he professed to have in his possession. Only, he didn't have that deadly evidence. He believed he was about to get it—as indeed he was. He meant to have it between Saturday, when he telegraphed, and yesterday, which was the day appointed by him for their preliminary rendezvous upstate. So, for my second error I have an excuse.

By the way, I have a conviction that if these pages of mine are given out in their entirety for publication, it will be because my loyal little Florence, disregarding what she so much as mentioned it to any living being, he immediately would reveal the deadly evidence he professed to have in his possession. Only, he didn't have that deadly evidence. He believed he was about to get it—as indeed he was. He meant to have it between Saturday, when he telegraphed, and yesterday, which was the day appointed by him for their preliminary rendezvous upstate. So, for my second error I have an excuse.

I fastened the tomahawk in a small vise and with a slant an entry wheel I tore down its brass until the cutting edge of the blade had been reduced in length by fully half an inch and in its thickness through by a material fraction of an inch. After that I treated the transformed head with an acid solution which, as I knew by former experience, at once would create a film of sealing corrosion over it, not to be distinguished except by chemical analysis from true verdigris. Then I restored the tag which labeled it specimen 578 and then, before restoring it to the glass case of war clubs, war axes and calumet pipes and ceremonial wands where it belonged, I rubbed it thoroughly so that no finger prints could remain, and when it had slipped from the flannel rag to rest in its proper place, I stepped back, catching up and tucking in the last remaining loose strands of my structure of defense.

And after that I went to bed and, though some may think it strange, I don't think it strange that I slept until Mrs. Bevil called me for breakfast. She told me I was sleeping so soundly she had to call my name several times before I roused up.

Until this moment when I cast my mind backward on the week which began with the two killings, it never occurred to me how like unto the nursery rhyme biography of "Solomon Grundy" was that historical windup of the late Manuel Sabino's career on this earth.

Observe, please, the resemblance—or is it merely that here I am letting my fancy run away with me?
